KEY LESSONS ON THE NAP PROCESS

Fabiola Muñoz Dodero
Minister of Environment

WE DON'T TALK ABOUT ADAPTATION, WE TALK ABOUT DEVELOPMENT

"We all play an important role to making decisions to adapt to climate change. We are committed to make our National Adaptation Plan promoting a multi-sectoral, multi-level and multi-stakeholder management with the participation of all Peruvians, because not only the public sector (national, regional and local level) has a rol, also indigenous peoples, private sector, international cooperation, NGO and academia need to be part of this national and global effort."

Rosa Morales Saravia
General Director of Climate Change and Desertification

THE VALUE OF PERU'S NAP

"The NAP allows us to know our work priorities to achieve Perú's sustainable development, and fulfill all the international commitments in consequence."

The National Adaptation Plan (NAP) Global Network is a group of individuals and institutions working to enhance national adaptation planning and action in developing countries. This is part of a series highlighting lessons emerging about the NAP process.
