

Advancing Gender-Responsive Adaptation Action

Global Stocktake submission from the NAP Global Network

As the global climate community comes together to assess collective progress towards the goals established in the Paris Agreement, how can we ensure that progress on adaptation and on gender equality work hand-in-hand?

Working with country partners, the NAP Global Network has identified a few key areas that require further attention and investment to enhance gender-responsive adaptation action.

Ongoing and inclusive stakeholder engagement, valuing diversity and ensuring gender balance

Enhancing capacities for gender-responsive adaptation action, including 'soft' skills

Ongoing use of gender analysis for decision making and to assess equity in the benefits from adaptation investments

Linking national and sub-national decision making to address context-specific gender issues

Applying a gender lens to adaptation finance, both private and public

Integrating gender considerations in monitoring, evaluation, and learning (MEL) systems for adaptation
